We Slept Here

Synopsis

We Slept Here is a case study in vulnerability and honesty. In this sequence of memoir-esque poems, Sierra DeMulder pulls at the threads of a past abusive relationship and the long road to forgiveness. The poems themselves become what was taken from her. These are hard poems, made up of clarity and healing, which attempt to share some of their peace with the world.

Sierra DeMulder is an internationally touring performance poet and educator, a two-time National Poetry Slam champion, and a thrice-published author of The Bones Below, New Shoes on a Dead Horse (2010, 2012, Write Bloody Publishing), and WE SLEPT HERE (Button Poetry, 2015). A 2014 McKnight Fellowship recipient, Sierra's work has been featured on NPR, Huffington Post, The Advocate, and more. In addition to performing, Sierra is the curriculum director of the Slam Camp at Indiana University, an annual writing summer camp for high school students, and one of the founders of Button Poetry.

Beautifully written and connected easily with almost everything Sierra had to say! Loved it !

I was never abused, nor was I an abuser, but wow. This short book of poetry had me so wound up in empathy for my spouse, who was abused, it helped me to understand her mentality more clearly. Loved it.

Wow. This book of poetry is one everyone needs. Gives a glimpse into what someone of abuse lives through daily. Could tell these were first hand experiences

Absolutely heart wrenching. Such a perfect description of my past. I love it.

Not a way to avoid crying. Or to feel it in your heart and soul. A must read. Will read it again and again.

Sierra DeMulder is new to me and I have bought everything I can for now to read. What a fabulous voice!

What a wonderful young artist.....so insightful....

I can't rate this until I have read it, but I have heard a few videos on button poetry and loved them.
