Richard Corson (late) was the author of several fashion and makeup books. He taught courses in theatrical makeup in several colleges across the country. In 1972 he received the Founders Award (International Thespian Society) "in recognition of distinguished contributions to theatre and youth." His name is perhaps the most well-recognized in the industry. James Galvan is an Associate Professor of Costume Design and Technology in the Department of Theatre and Dance at the University of Texas at Austin. Over the past twenty years he has presented workshops in such diverse places as Moscow and Hong Kong.

The book is pricey, and I was expecting for the whole book to have updated images and text. The revisions are minimal... Most of the old photos are still there and everything feels outdated. For me, this was not worth it,(since I already have the original version) I gave it to a good friend who was very grateful.

The pictures in this book are very cool, however this was a book bought for a make-up class that I barely used so it wouldn't be fair to say I love it. I do not hate it though because it was useful in the tips it gave. I do find hands on learning to be more useful for myself, but this is a great stepping stone for anyone with an interest in stage make-up who might not have a clue to where to start.

Was a little sad when I found out it is black and white all the way through except for the chapter Make ups in color. Good information, but boring to look through and read and the pictures are a little out of date. Condition was less good than I expected too. The content is great, but if you don't need it for a class - find something better.

The price was right but I bought this for a young teen interested in the field of stage makeup and I was disappointed there weren't more pictures and "how to" guides.

Having been in the theatrical and masquerade costume business, I think this is the best book ever written about stage makeup. Perhaps the later editions are even better, but this is a 5 Star.

Barely used this book for my class. A few useful pages on scar wax, but the cover is misleading. All photos are black and white. A book about makeup should be in color, I think. Horribly outdated. Required text for makeup class -- very much in need of a facelift. ;-) illustrations are a bit dated, but it does have some very useful information in it. Worked for what I needed.

This book is very helpful for someone who is just getting into heavy stage makeup and I still reference it often.
