(NFT) released their first book, a guide to Manhattan, in May of 2000. Today, NFT produces eleven books each year, working closely with city and neighborhood editors in Atlanta, Boston, Brooklyn, Chicago, London, Los Angeles, New York, Philadelphia, San Francisco, Seattle, and Washington DC. Their offices are in New York City.

After years of using the NFT guide to New York City, I bought this guide for my daughter who recently moved to Philadelphia. While I am sure she will get some use out of it, I have two major complaints. Unlike the NYC edition, there are no bus routes given on the maps. The NYC edition has 3 maps for each neighborhood. Philadelphia's has only 2 per neighborhood, leaving off Transportation, which is arguably the most useful of the 3. Also, this guide does not include all the neighborhoods -- especially North and Northeast Philadelphia.

This is a steaming pile of dog crap. The map resolution is so bad that they are unusable and the information contained in this book is about useless to anyone. I used to love this series of books, no more!!

Love the size of this book, although it's a bit hard to read due to the extremely small font. This book always makes me feel like I really have an excellent sense of the neighborhoods I'll be in. This is really the one.

I would highly recommend waiting for this book to come out in Braille. Better yet, select another guidebook in which information & maps can be easily gleaned & highlighted for reference.

Gave this to my son who is moving to Philadelphia. Great succinct guide, easy to carry.

Too small to be useful. Do not waste your money

The print in this book is too dang small - useless to me

I have to disagree with the complaint that this is too small. I think it's perfect in size due to the fact that if you're trying not to look like a tourist, you don't want a big guide book shoved under your nose! There's a really neat Septa Map in the back of this that unfolds but stays connected to the book. With the coming warm weather, I am ridiculously excited to use this!
